

Rave reviews

“What if you had an easy way to track your family’s ever-changing plans, keep a quick journal, and get timely reminders so that you would never forget a birthday again? And what if it was all free? Too good to be true? Not with Cozi.com, an ad-supported Web site that promises families the moon and actually delivers.” – FamilyFun

Parents

Cozi is an online calendar we love.

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

Cozi makes kitchen computers, or family computers anywhere in the house, more useful ... Cozi just works. It looks clean, organized and uncluttered, regardless of hectic schedules.

FamilyCircle

It helps busy families update shopping and to-do lists, keep track of team practices and other activities, share info, organize household chores and more.

metro

This could possibly be the easiest way to go green. Digitally organizing your family’s schedule and communication is a perfect solution to a family paper calendar and millions of sticky notes all over the house. Cozi has found a great way to do all of this for you. It has a calendar that easily syncs with Outlook and Internet calendars (such as Google) as well as creating to-do and shopping lists.

Good Housekeeping

When the Cozi team told me you have the ability to sync family calendars and work calendars seamlessly, also allowing individuals to determine the desired level of integration, I was skeptical ... When I got home I signed up for Cozi and was able to do such within five minutes. And when my computer is inactive, a Cozi screensaver creates a dynamic collage of my desired photographs.

CNBC

Time Is Money: Get help organizing your family life ... [Cozi] helps you keep track of family appointments and lists, coordinate home and work schedules, and share photos.

Better Homes and Gardens

[The] Cozi Calendar is the new way for busy families to keep up with doctor appointments, to-do lists, home and work schedules, favorite photos, and more—all in one place. It’s free, easy, and incredibly helpful.

Rave reviews CONTINUED

Then I came across something that made all those harried tasks blissfully unnecessary ... It's called Cozi.com and it's a free family scheduling website ... This is like a dream come true—even better than any web page I could have dreamed up for my family!

This is our latest obsession! Streamline your calendars, lists, messages, photos and personal journal with Cozi. It does all your heavy scheduling and makes even the messiest of moms feel ultra organized. Best of all—it's free!

As a corporate slave, I like Cozi because [it] syncs with my Outlook calendar, and the sync is under my control. I can have Cozi read only the appointments that keep me away from home in the evenings; my wife doesn't see the family calendar crowded with my meetings during work hours.

Cozi has created family-friendly scheduling software that will steer your family in the right direction ... Cozi will make sure no Costco run for toilet paper is forgotten and no parent-teacher conference is missed (unless you actually prefer it that way).

Before you dial the family shrink, log onto Cozi. A totally free tool for busier-than-busy parents ... a mini command central for the fam.

