

Family Fun, September 2008

Get Organized With This Free Online Service

What if you had an easy way to track your family's ever-changing plans, keep a quick journal, and get timely reminders so that you would never forget a birthday again? And what if it was all free? Too good to be true? Not with Cozi.com, an ad-supported Web site that promises families the moon and actually delivers. Its color-coded calendar combines your family's schedules in one easy-to-read chart.

Web Site We Love

There are customizable grocery lists and a sweet screen saver showcasing personal photos. But best of all, Cozi is accessible from almost anywhere. Family members can log on, enter a password, and check on or update all of their information. Cozi will even send out messages to e-mail accounts and text-enabled cell phones. Now, no one has an excuse for avoiding chores or forgetting to pick up pizza for dinner (we're looking at you, Dad).

—BETH HONEYMAN

